Allison Good - Human Trafficking Survivor

Could Not Attend

Originally from Queens New York, Allison was trafficked at age 5. From that experience, came years of abuse and addiction, until eight years ago with the help of a close friend, Allison was brought to a local church in Boca Raton where she began to understand what it means to be loved, wanted and valued by God.

Today, Allison is the Director of Women's Ministry at The Avenue Church of Delray Beach where she reaches out to other young girls who might be dealing with similar issues. She also works with organizations like Redeem the Shadows which advocate for the end to modern day slavery.

Her passion for pointing women and their families to Jesus Christ for authentic beauty, identity and worth emerged to her own surprise from her greatest adversities.

In addition to her love for community, reading, writing, traveling, and the beach, Allison loves to spend her time encouraging and challenging others with the gospel of Jesus and witnessing the God stories that follow. Through her diverse experiences and responsibilities with Spanish River Church and multiple church plants from Croatia to Haiti to Deerfield and now Delray Beach - Allison discovered her ministry calling and had her gifting confirmed by others.

Through her own battles, Allison loves nothing more than to watch the transformation God works in people's lives.
